

The San Francisco Urban Agriculture Alliance

Our Mission

The San Francisco Urban Agriculture Alliance (SFUAA) seeks to increase the amount of food grown within San Francisco and promote greater access to and consumption of that food through advocacy, education, and grassroots action.

We pursue our mission by leveraging the strengths of our members, building bonds with other organizations and government agencies, and promoting healthy food cultures.

Our Work

- We advocate for city policies that increase access to land and opportunities for food cultivation in San Francisco.
- We strengthen the networks of organizations and individuals engaged in urban agriculture.
- We support the projects, campaigns and events of our alliance members.
- We offer resources and referrals for city residents, organizations and institutions interested in growing food.
- We create regional alliances to strengthen the national movement for food security.

The San Francisco Urban Agriculture Alliance

The San Francisco Urban Agriculture Alliance is a young and evolving coalition and we would like your feedback on how we can be most effective in our work to expand and improve urban agriculture in this city. Please take a moment to fill out the form below.

Why are you interested in joining the SFUAA?

If you are part of an organization, how can the SFUAA better support your work?

If you are an individual, how can the SFUAA better serve your needs?

What campaigns and grassroots organizing efforts would you like the SFUAA to support or help to organize?

What policy issues would you like the SFUAA to focus on?

Thanks for your input!
